Spring 2007

- Students were assigned locations in New York City and on Long Island that Robert Moses commissioned; locations included Jones Beach, Montauk Point State Park, the Triborough Bridge, and Ocean Parkway among others
- Students obtained aerial images of their assigned locations from Google Earth
- Students used an assortment of materials / media to create three-dimensional representations of the locations
- Students conducted research to learn a little about the history of the location as well as the date the location was commissioned or completed
- Students' models were displayed on a bulletin board in the form of a timeline highlighting the career of Robert Moses
